

Analyst

Who is AMPLYFI?

AMPLYFI is an artificial intelligence and advanced data analytics company headquartered in Cardiff.

Our flagship platform, DataVoyant™, is a game-changer in the sphere of business intelligence, informing organisations of global market trends, technology advances and emerging business disruptions. It is a deep-learning powered software used by corporate strategy team, analysts, business intelligence divisions, industry experts, technology scouts and senior leaders in the world's leading corporations, governments and academic institutions.

The AMPLYFI Team

We're all about team – its super important to us that everyone is hardworking, committed to the vision and enjoys working together.

We're a pretty autonomous bunch, with a flat structure and a flexible approach to how we work. We encourage creativity and welcome people to share new ideas that can be implemented to make an impact. We're doing industry-shaking work so "out of the box" thinking is essential.

We don't have a dress code and we have a flexible approach to work hours so you can be yourself and perform at your best. You should know that we are big dog fans with a resident pooch, Milo. As acting "Head of Cuddles", he's always on hand to give you some affection and a boost when you need it.

Working as part of AMPLYFI's Strategy team

The Analyst will be responsible for supporting all aspects of client delivery. You will help generate expert analysis leveraging AMPLYFI's AI-driven technology to establish us as a leading provider of business intelligence and research. You will be assisting with the management and execution of complex research projects, identifying, monitoring and managing potential risks.

You must be able to maintain exceptional standards of accuracy and rigor in a fast moving, challenging environment, with a commitment to outstanding levels of client service. This role offers the opportunity for the right individual to become an influential member of the team and the wider business.

Who are you?

- STEM degree from a top-tier university
- Excellent analytical skills
- Strong interpersonal skills and the ability to establish rapport and credibility -
- Strong organization and planning skills
- Previous experience writing reports and delivering presentations would be advantageous
- A commitment to excellence in order to meet high standards expected internally and externally
- Ability to effectively communicate complex concepts and trends (both internally and externally)
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills.

If you would like to hear more on why AMPLYFI is an awesome place to work, please email your CV to chloe.murray@amplyfigroup.com explaining the position you are applying to and why.